ERT Group Unveils Business Intelligence (BI) Solution Fully Integrated with Microsoft Platform

Boca Raton, Florida – August 28, 2007 — ERT (Enterprise Resource Technologies) Group introduces ERT emPower, an integrated, industry leading business intelligence (BI) and analytics solution. With ERT emPower, organizations can now transform their business data into knowledge, providing the information they need to make confident business decisions. ERT emPower is built on Microsoft technologies for easy integration and allows organizations to look deeply at key performance indicators and easily pinpoint accurate information about the sales and operations of their business.

“In today’s business environment, simply having access to data isn’t enough. Companies need high-quality reporting and deep analysis tools to help them make timely, accurate business decisions” said Michael Medipor, president of ERT Group. “ERT emPower enables companies to analyze and transform data across an entire company, where information can be shared via a Web browser, creating greater collaboration and real-time business analysis,” he added.

With ERT emPower, organizations can develop information-rich reports and can either use pre-defined functions or online analytical processing (OLAP) cubes to perform in-depth analysis. ERT emPower shares a similar graphical look and feel of other Microsoft technologies, which allows employees to learn and adopt the tools quickly.
